Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 20 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A fine and dry start, cloud building into the afternoon.

Today:
A fine and dry start, with hazy sunshine in the west and clearer skies in the east. Remaining largely dry with occasional sunny spells going into the afternoon, although cloud generally increasing which may bring the odd isolated shower. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Tonight:
Remaining quite cloudy overnight, with intermittent outbreaks of patchy light rain possible. A milder night than recently and staying largely frost-free. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Wednesday:
After a cloudy morning with some further patchy light rain possible, it will be a largely dry afternoon, with cloud breaking up and allowing for some hazy sunshine. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Staying fine and dry throughout the period, with plenty of sunny spells and patchy fair-weather cloud. Temperatures remaining close to average, but overnight frosts are still possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.